

CHANDRAN'S WATER STORY

India

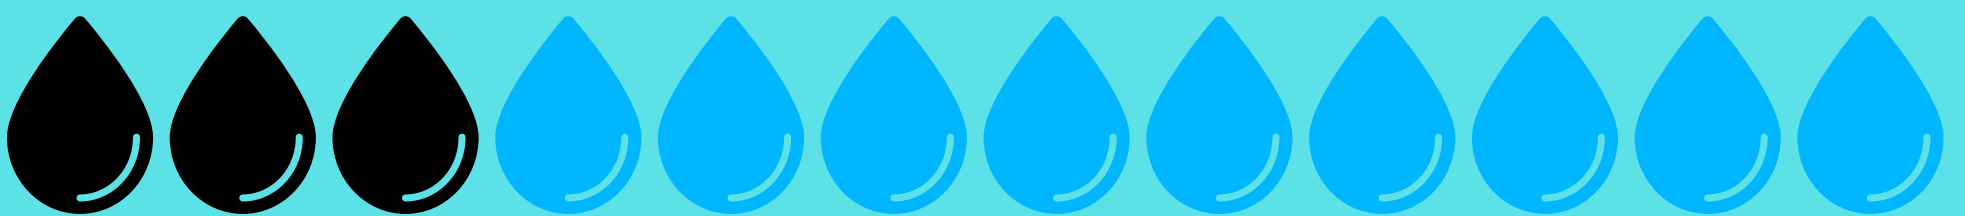

"Fresh water is very precious in India. There are many problems with water supply, pollution and contamination here.

My family is lucky to live in a city with a town water supply and a sewage system. We use about 130 litres per person, per day L/pp/day. That is the same as almost 1 full bathtub.

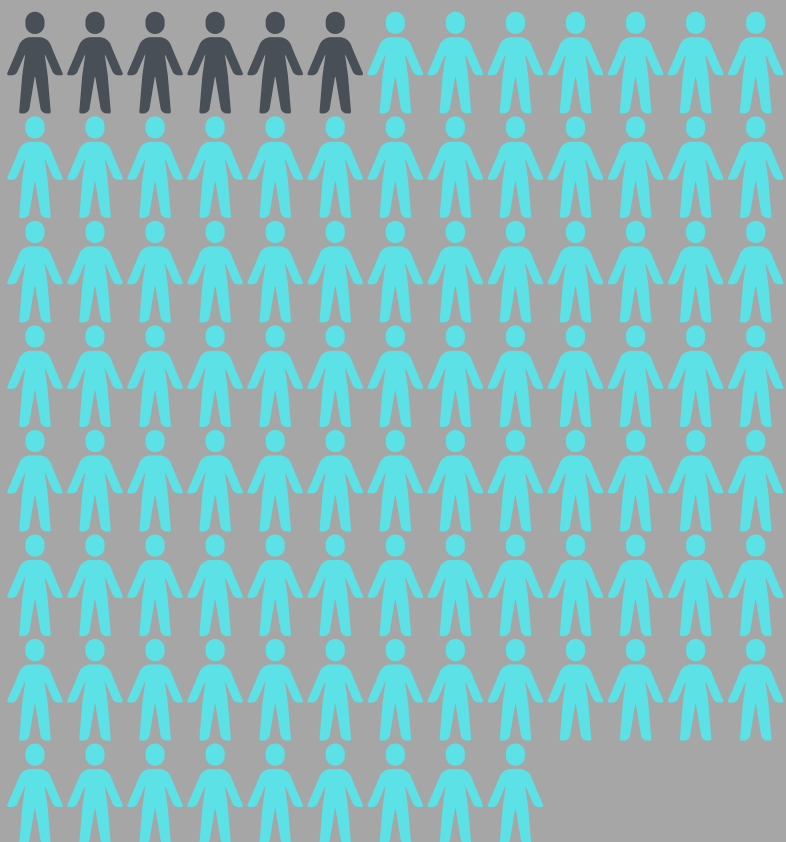

People who live in the country or poorer areas in India have much less water available: about 55 litres per person, per day (L/pp/day)."

25% of kids in India experience water shortages and/or water scarcity

Access to safe water

94% of people in India have a safe drinking water supply.

Water stress

VERY HIGH!

Water stress is how much water is taken (withdrawal) compared to the water resources in that country.
